

The Question:

Is it Egypt, Britain, Turkey, France, Sudan, or Germany that recently passed legislation to:

- Legalize torture (water boarding, stress positions, physical abuse, sexual abuse and humiliation, extreme temperatures, sleep deprivation, sensory deprivation, threats of death, and threats of harm/death of loved ones) and detain people indefinitely on the merest suspicion?
- Suspend habeas corpus which prevents detained people from ever knowing or speaking to the evidence being used to detain them? Uses confessions coerced through torture as evidence against detained people?
- Give its leader the sole power to name anyone-citizen or not-unlawful enemy combatant?
- Give its leaders amnesty for war crimes they committed?

The Answer:

None of the Above. The Answer is
*The United States of America

On October 17, 2006, President Bush, with the majority of Congress backing him, signed into law the Military Commissions Act which allows for the above listed outrages. This is all being done in your name. This defies international law outlined in Common Article 3 of the Geneva Conventions.

This law is one of the many attacks on civil liberties and human rights that have resulted from the so called "war on terror" in which the United States illegally and immorally invaded and now occupies Iraq (itself a war crime). Bush has made clear he intends to escalate this war by sending 20,000 more combat troops and he has threatened Iran and Syria, making clear his intention to widen the war in the Middle East.

If War Crimes, Torture, and Crimes against humanity are not a reason to impeach, what is?
